

RACING—St. Noel Won Feature at Union Course and Harmakis at Fair Grounds.

ARNOLD K. TO THE FORE AGAIN AS FAIR GROUND'S POSSIBILITIES.

Trotter's Gelding Seems Best in the Last Race on the Card, Which Promises Keen Contention—Feature of the Day Is Fourth Race, in Which Knowledge Looks the Best—Open Card at Union Track.

Although the fourth race at the Fair Grounds to-day might properly be classed as the feature of the card, the last race probably will be the best betting proposition on the programme. In this race, a good field is assembled.

Arnold K. has been showing good form of late, although he has developed a tendency to swerve in the stretch, which seems to have affected his last two races.

In his last out it resulted in his disqualification. He has four pounds off his last race, and his most dangerous opponent to-day seems to be Mollie T., whom he beat rather handily in the last race.

It is true that his swerving interfered with Mollie T., but he had practically passed her at the time. He should hold her safe to-day. Memphis's best work is generally shown on a softer track than that which should prevail to-day, and the same applies to Brooder.

Pourquoi Pas is hardly up to her last season's form, and Frank Rice is one of the New Orleans contingent who favor slush. So it seems as if the Trotter entry should win this closing race.

In the fourth event, a six-furlong allowance event, Knowledge should win. The lumpy track yesterday did not seem to his liking and he faltered for an instant in the stretch. With a more favorable footing to-day and ten pounds off his weight, it surely looks as if he could win this race.

Doe Stein was not his usual self, apparently, in Echodale and Iry Bennett. As practically all Echodale's good races have been won on a heavy track, it looks as if he would do well to-day. Iry Bennett did not do enough in his last out to give him any confidence that he should run in sensational fashion to-day.

In the third, Meran seems best, although form on the contenders must be based on their showing in the recent heavy going. He managed to catch the best section of the track behind General Prig last Wednesday and ran a fair race from where he got off. He has eight pounds off to-day, which should help somewhat.

Dusky Seem was running as a hot thing, but it does not appear as if runner's form were worth considering. Sister Lillian and Illuminate may get second and third places.

King's Charm ran a really good race Monday. He led a field of fair class to the last sixteenth and fought victoriously to the close. He had practically the same weight as to-day—two pounds more Monday, but he exacted a heavy toll of his contender. Short Cake ran a good second to Memphis in his last out. Both races were in heavy going, but it is the sole recent form to offer on the pair.

Christie ran a fair race Friday. She was contended to the last sixteenth and then commenced to back up. She is in the Baker stable and is expected to be in good form to-day. Her chances in the field of five were well liked by many of the female betters who congregated in the rear of the press box. Shrieks of joy rent the air when he came home by himself.

Walker intends to ship to Worth to-day, and he said in the race yesterday that he did not regret his action in giving the gelding away.

He may jump on winning, and he may never win again," he said, "but I am tired of handling him. Phillips can keep him in his stable as long as he likes, but money, however, and that is worth more to me than Urchin."

John Schorr of Memphis is still at the track, and made two bets yesterday. Those who have heard of the brewer's bank roll may imagine that he burned up his money in these two bets. But he didn't. He bet just $10 each on Urchin and on Echodale in the two bets. He won $100 on Urchin and $100 on Echodale.

GIFT HORSE WINS AT LONG ODDS

Urchin Gallops Home Ahead in Opening Race at 40 to 1, at the Fair Grounds.

After being given away as of little account and before his new owner could secure his own colors in which to race, Urchin galloped home in the first race at the Fair Grounds yesterday, winning at odds of 40 to 1.

Urchin raced in the colors of William Walker, who has owned and trained him for some time. Considering that the gelding's races had not been up to the Phillips standard before the first race, Urchin galloped home in the first race at the Fair Grounds yesterday, winning at odds of 40 to 1.
